

Company

Headquartered in Munich with offices in Lisbon, San José and Atlanta, ClearOps is an innovative B2B SaaS Scale-Up dedicated to our vision of keeping the world of machinery moving. In order to ensure global machine uptime, ClearOps transforms the service supply chain into a hyperconnected ecosystem, seamlessly connecting production, dealers, technicians, and machines in the field.

Product

For OEMs, ClearOps offers the Parts Cloud as a solution to gain visibility and control over dealer parts networks to ensure global parts availability when and wherever needed.

From the dealers standpoint, ClearOps delivers solutions such as the Service Cloud, ensuring seamless parts and technician management, with the overarching goal of increasing repair efficiency and reducing administrative tasks for technicians.

Financing

ClearOps is maintaining its independence from investors so far.

Vision

We keep the world of machinery moving by ensuring every supply chain speaks a language of innovation and progress – creating an everlasting world.

Mission

We redefine the essence of machine uptime, by transforming machinery supply chains into reliable and pioneering data ecosystems. We are committed to maximizing customer lifetime value by ensuring that every interaction with machinery is not just a transaction, but an opportunity for growth, sustainability, and enduring success.

Founder

In 2020, William Barkawi founded ClearOps, spinning off the company from a consultancy project within the Barkawi Group.
